1

Select a secure and trusted cloud platform that combines cutting-edge technologies to allow you to create an end-to-end customer complaints management solution, tailored to your needs, without additional software

Capture all incoming customer communication from various input channels, automatically classify and organize this information in one place so you do not waste time search data all over to find what you need.

Empower your employees to log complaints details such as the name of customer, source, product that the customer is complaining about, in an electronic form.

Use a configurable and robust workflow engine to electronically route and track customer complaints through different stages and staff. Review each case with its history for context to check for validity. If the complaint is valid, involve cross-functional teams, assign relevant agents to resolve the complaint.

Leverage advanced reporting capabilities to monitor the status of complaints, view trend, identify cause or access to a chart that reveals which are the products generating most issues. Customize, save your reports and refresh them as new data is collected. Share them with others.
